BUT THE NEW DEVICE IS...

A woman with blonde hair is lying on a light-colored wooden floor, smiling. She is surrounded by a large number of electronic devices, including several laptops (labeled 'ALL OF THEM.'), smartphones, and tablets, all of which appear to be Apple products. The devices are scattered around her, with some stacked on top of her. The lighting is warm and natural, coming from the side.

ALL OF THEM.

A photograph of a person's hands working on a complex electronic assembly. The assembly consists of a breadboard, various integrated circuits, resistors, and a dense web of multi-colored wires (red, green, blue, black, yellow) connecting the components. In the background, a red component with four vertical slots is visible, and a person wearing a plaid shirt is partially seen. The scene is set in a workshop or laboratory environment.

The image features a large, bold, white sans-serif font that reads 'anstruther' on the top line and 'scotland' on the bottom line. This text is overlaid on a black and white photograph of a group of people standing outdoors, possibly a festival or a public gathering. Below the photograph is a yellow wall with several names handwritten on it, including Erika, Moth, mike, Jan, kate, Sarah, Jude, otis, Rachel, Davide, Peter, Dan, Vladan, and Holl. The overall composition suggests a travel or tourism advertisement for the town of Anstruther in Scotland.
